What About Wages?

"Do you work for wages? You will have to forego higher wages for your particular job for the duration of the war."

Remember that statement? President Roosevelt made it in his most recent fireside chat. In spite of it, reports coming out of Washington indicate that the entire wage situation remains confused and unsettled. Statements of Chairman William H. Davis of the War Labor Board indicate that the Board does not believe the President's reference to wages places a ceiling on existing levels. Yet many economists point out that it will be difficult to prevent consumer prices from creeping up unless some method is found for preventing blanket wage increases. And, if we are to avoid the suicidal fires of inflation, those prices must be kept down.

This does not mean that wage ceilings must be inflexible—that a man must not receive more money if he does more work or is advanced to a better job. If the morale of employees is to be kept high, if output in war factories is to be speeded, some incentive to better work must be maintained in the future as it has been in the past. And it should be maintained at all wage levels, low and high. The same incentive operates at the $25 and at the $25,000 levels, and it should be permitted to operate.

But raises that boost wages for an entire group in a plant or an industry should be outlawed for the duration. Such raises as are granted should be granted on the basis of an individual worker's performance—how much work he contributes, not what union he has joined.

Our Secret Weapon

We've heard a lot about secret-weapons in this war. When the fighting started with the attack on Poland, no one knew quite what to expect. Strange guns, tanks, planes—many people thought that these and more suddenly might be produced. When nothing like that happened, people learned to discount the talk as foreign propaganda.

Now comes word that America has an important secret weapon of its own. At least, that's what a member of the War Production Board said in a speech the other day. That weapon is America's world-famous inventive genius. And to date it has produced not one weapon, but many.

Serious American bomb sight, more accurate than any in the world—improvements in American airplanes that enable them to climb to higher ceilings than ever before—the Garand rifle that fires three times as fast as the Army's old Springfield—these and many more have been developed. And, through the genius of American mass production methods, they are being turned out now in ever-increasing quantities to arm the fighting forces of freedom.

With their legitimate interests guarded by our traditional patent system, American inventors have been stimulated to develop these and thousands of other inventions. And, when war was declared, they relaxed their patent rights in an effort to speed production. The truth is that under legislation now on the books it's possible for anyone to make anything for the government without considering whether any patents may apply. Enactment of the patent legislation now being advanced in Congress would not aid the war effort in this respect, but it would largely remove the incentive to invention and industrial research which the patent system has so long provided.

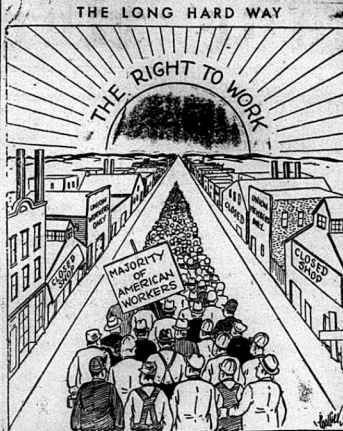

Prob'ly Facts

By DICK LEFELS

Dick has been working so hard in the past few weeks on the election and on his chicken coop that his brain has refused to work this week (according to him). So this is the Editor speaking.

If Dick had written this, I am sure he would have put something in his column about the former Editor being in town on Wednesday afternoon. I mean Miss Margarette Brown. Of course she is married now and that isn't her name any more. Her name is Mrs. Richard W. Tupper now. She and her husband were here on their honeymoon. They were in Miami and couldn't resist the urge to come by and see her old stomping grounds. Mr. Tupper is a white house reported in Washington. Nine looking man, too. According to Dick, Margarette has about that to be the only girl old that is here.

Since I haven't had time to write to Buster Willis since he has been in the Army I'm going to answer him in this column. He Wonder what Washington is going to do about the synthetic rubber program we wanted to start here in the Everglades. Its getting time to plant those sweet potatoes if we are going to plant at all. According to the experts on planting, we should start on that before very long and we haven't heard from Washington to go ahead. All we can get out of them is that they back the program to the limit, but no one up there seems to be doing a thing about it. Maybe Pepper is too busy with his canal business to pay attention to such a small thing as planting 100,000 acres for rubber. Or maybe he don't like the word "canal" in the program.

ATTACK! ATTACK! ATTACK!

American fighting on both the fighting front and the home front. We're giving the Axis a bitter taste of what it costs to fight. We're fighting the infamous U.S. column that shows prices are high. he sent a note to Joe. "Tell Joe I'm mighty tickled about his being The Mighty Ben Magot," he said, "and for him to send me a bag of candy, and I'll send him a pair of Jap ears. All we talk about here," he continued, "is Flying, Zoom, Dives, Stalls, Wing-Overs, Pull-Outs, Rolls and a dozen others. It sounds good and sure is fun."

Mike is an Aviation Cadet in the Army Air Corps and has just received his classification, which is the top rank of Pilot in the Air Crew. His primary training will begin soon. If you can write him, do so. His address is: Aviation Cadet M. A. Murphy, Jr., A. F. R. T. C., Santa Ana, Cal.

No use crying. It's the war, you know. So give Dad this tip. Tell him that Sinclair Dealers have developed a special Sinclair-ize service that makes cars last longer. Tell Dad that just as American railroads, airlines and the U. S. Army use Sinclair lubricants to save wear on vital transportation equipment, so can Sinclair Dealers use specialized Sinclair lubricants to save wear on your family's car.

Tell Dad to ask his nearby Sinclair Dealer about this service today. He'll find that Sinclair-ize service can save him money and worry, too.

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY

The term "Inflation" don't mean much to the average citizen. All he knows is that it is necessary and important as far as his tires are concerned and is also applied to balloons.

For years economists have been jumping out from behind pillars and shouting "Inflation" at him, until he had come to take it as a matter of course. He vaguely understands that it is supposed to have something to do with the cost of living but has been so blamed busy trying to earn one he hasn't had time to worry much about it.

Now after then some learned individual would appear before the Rotary Club of Chamber of Commerce and spit what otherwise might have been a good program with a long-winded speech on the subject of "Inflation" that to the average listener was just about as clear as a rainy day.

In the back of the room Bill Jones (classification, retail hardware) nudges Sam Smith (classification, stevedore) and asks: "What's he talkin' about?" Sam yawns and answers: "I don't know—he ain't sayin'."

In the meantime Mr. average Citizen went about his business as usual, trying to pay his debts, his taxes, buy war bonds, meet the payroll and outsmart the well known wolf.

Tearing down the broad and pleasant highway of American life at 70 miles an hour with nothing to worry about but an occasional road patrolman, he suddenly ran bang smack into a barricade marked "SLOW—Inflation Ahead."

It was annoying, of course, but with a war on a fellow had to expect a detour now and then. He plunged into the rough. Boy, what a road! He had all the sensations experienced by a cockroach running hellbent over a slab of Swiss cheese. Every few feet some guy with a badge or a red flag would step in his path and say "Take it easy, Buddy!" "Get back in line there, YOU!"

A kind and benevolent government, in the wisdom of its knowledge that the average citizen is a pretty dumb sort of a cluck, has set about the task of protecting him against himself. It has grasped the gentleman cow by the horns and undertaken the gigantic task of mapping out the new Way of Life, which for a time may prove mighty rough traveling, but in the end is supposed to get us where we are going.

Now far be it from me to attempt to explain "Inflation." A lot of guys a darn sight smarter have been tryin' to do that for years with little success. I'd just as soon try to untangle the Einstein Theory.

All I know is that like smallpox or the plague, it is something to steer clear of and is more dangerous to a nation than all the bombs an enemy might drop, since it saps our life-blood and destroys our morals, profiting no one but the speculator, the hoarder and the profiteer. And even they, in the end, must perish, as did Sampson, from the house they pull down on all through their own selfishness and greed.

According to those who are supposed to know, we are facing inflation today and unless we meet and deal with the problem courageously and unselfishly the consequences may haunt us and our children for years to come.

The establishment of price ceilings, with prices of countless commodities frozen as of March 1942, together with the limiting of installment buying and the encouragement of investing in government bonds and savings, are the remedies that have been invoked so far in an effort to prevent living costs from mounting higher.

The problem of "freezing" prices on such a gigantic scale is extremely difficult and business as a whole, large or small, faces the most trying period in its history. If reason and common sense are employed by those charged with enforcing the new regulations, much misery and injustice can be avoided. But if bureaucrats drudge with power entrusted to them, seek to enforce regulations with a black-sheep whip and brass knuckles, the plan will not only fail but we will find ourselves worse off than we were before.

Even at best, before we get through with this thing a lot of poor guys now on the ragged edge and cowering behind the eight-ball will wind up in a straight jacket, just plumb nuts from trying to keep from being FROZEN to death.

the world on Sunday, May 24.

The first is: "Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God" (Psalms 42:11).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon in the following from the Bible: "Return unto thy rest, O my soul; for the Lord hath dealt bountifully with thee. For thou hast delivered my soul from death, mine eyes from tears, and my feet from falling" (Ps. 116:7-8).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Life is the law of Soul, even the law of the spirit of Truth, and Soul is never without its representative. Man's individual being can no more die nor disappear in unconsciousness than can Soul, for both are immortal" (p.427:2-7).

Tires and Gasoline

Since tires and gasoline are being rationed you will be wise to make a Personal Checking account do your bill paying. The expense is negligible compared to the service and convenience. Personal checks cost just 10c per check drawn—and no charge for deposits—no money tied up in the account above the amount required to cover your checks.

A Personal Checking account saves time, save money, saves tires, and gas and parking charges.
